Devotee of the Presidential Game Thinks Course Here Will Prove Valuable Asset to Albuquerque

A. H. McGaffey, president and general manager of the Santa Barbara Tie and Fule company, returned last night from Los Angeles, where his family has been visiting for several months. Mr. McGaffey came armed with a copy of the Evening Herald telling about the organization of the Albuquerque Golf club, and loaded down with enough golf sticks to equip the entire membership of the club, of which he is the vice president.

"It's simply great," said Mr. McGaffey, "and I am going to start a men's golf club here for my clubs just before leaving and now I and that the bunch have gathered together and done the deed. It is fine. I did not know of the organization of the club until I was on my way to Albuquerque, but I have been reading the Los Angeles Golf club for my clubs just before leaving and you will find me in the game next Saturday. The new club with a first rate course should result in bringing and holding many winter visitors to Albuquerque who will not stay here because in the past there has been no go-

King Lear, the former Princeton pitcher, who is with Herzog's Reds, is said to be remarkably clever at sliding to base. We like to see young men succeed, therefore we hope that Mr. Lear's obit will not read as follows: "As a pitcher he is best remembered for the way in which he slid to base."

BANKERS WILL ROLL MATCH BY TELEPHONE WITH A VAGAS TEAM

The challenge of the San Jose Doves to meet any ball team in the world next Sunday was accepted yesterday by the Federals. The latter line up is as follows: Hartline and O'Bannion, pitchers; Manquera, first base; Coen, second base; Salazar, shortstop; Gonzales, third base; Rudolph, left field; Tenorio, center field; O'Bannon or Hartline, right field.

In a handicap league match last night the Doves took two games from the pitchers on the Drummer allies. P. Wilson, of the Butchers, was high man, with a score of 218 in the third game.

rooms of the court house where it is proposed to put the county jail. The jail is in the rooms of the deputy district court clerk; also, the plastering in such condition and the ceiling that a new papering of the walls would put these rooms in good condition.

We also recommend that steps be taken in the county jail that the prisoners may have suitable facilities for bathing; also, that a steam heating apparatus be installed in the court house, that a great saving may be made not only in the fuel consumed, but in the expense of cleaning of the rooms caused by smoke from the stoves; also recommend that more bed clothing be furnished the prisoners, particularly in the cells.

"We wish also to state that on investigation of the jail we found the same in a good, clean condition, the prisoners in a happy frame of mind and apparently having enough to eat. We have also investigated the various offices of the court house and find everything in an apparently satisfactory condition.

"We wish also to extend to the district attorney our thanks for his promptness in bringing cases before us and affording us all the facilities in his power for bringing our labor to a quick conclusion.

"We will also to thank the officers in the court house for the assistance they have given us in our investigations. We wish also to thank Sheriff Romero on the condition of his office; Mr. Lewis, his deputy, having taken us through the office, attempting to go into details more or less this office showing a very neat appearance, as far as the reports for monies received.

The defense was under way this afternoon and it was said that the case might continue for another day.

GRAND JURY BRINGS IN FINAL REPORT

Improvements to the county buildings including a new wing for female prisoners at the jail and the addition of a strong box to the equipment of the treasurer's office are recommended by the grand jury in its report to District Judge H. V. Raynolds.

The jury finished its labors late yesterday afternoon and reported to the court at 4 o'clock. Eight indictments were found. In twelve cases submitted to the jury no bills were found. The jury was in session for seven days and the elimination of twelve cases was the result of pains-taking and thorough investigation which was conducted by District Attorney Manuel U. Vigil and Judge Raynolds.

The jury is said to have gone over thoroughly into the evidence as a trial jury. It is thought that the foreman of the grand jurors.

Pollution is the jury's report.

We give a hearty vote of thanks to the members of the grand jury for their services.

We have been in session seven days and during that time have examined forty-nine witnesses. They have returned eight true bills and have found no bills in twelve cases.

After making an examination of the county jail and the county jail we have the following recommendations to make:

"That a wing be added to the present county jail, either of cement blocks or brick for the purpose of keeping the women prisoners and the male prisoners properly isolated. At the present time there is but one wall that divides the female from the male prisoners, and from information given us it seems that the effect is bad. We, therefore, earnestly recommend that such a wing be built with the first money obtainable.

"Also, on investigation in the court house we find the treasurer is without adequate means of keeping his money, there being a vault for books, etc., but no safe or safe for the money. The treasurer at present having to take the money which accumulates in his office home at night for safe keeping. We therefore, respectfully ask that a steel strong box, such as would be suitable, be furnished the treasurer.

"It has also been brought to our attention that a recent law passed has placed the board of county commissioners in such a condition that they are unable to use the county jail for labor on the roads, there being no shrinking wagons or wagons obtainable for that purpose, they being in the hands of the county road board. We respectfully ask that your Honor request the county commissioners to take the matter up with the county road board and arrangement in such a manner that the county commissioners will be allowed the use of the shrinking wagons and other vehicles and implements at such times when they are not in use by the county road board.

"We also recommend that new carpets be furnished the various
